The Washington Correspondent of the Courier-Journal makes these sensible remarks, concerning Mr. Kelley the United States Minister to Austria: "Mr. Kelley, United States Minister to Austria, taking everything into consideration is perhaps the most abused man in the country, and yet less deserving of abuse. Mr. Kelley is certainly a gentleman, a man of ability, education and refinement. With the exception of his hasty and ill-considered remarks at the Richmond banquet one can not well see why he should be held so prominently to public ridicule by his own countrymen. It is bad enough for him to subservience from the Austrian press, much less to furnish that press with condemnation from America to be reprinted. Austria refused to receive Mr. Kelley simply because his wife was a Jewess, and to please the Italians. The slight was not to Mr. Kelley, but at America and its form of government, which protects and upholds civil and religious liberty. This latter Mr. Bayard made plain in his letter to the Austrian court, which will be likely made public in a few days after Mr. Kelley's return. In the meantime good taste and decency should prompt the American press to cease its abuse of Mr. Kelley until the facts in the case are known. Austria is a bigoted country, and during Fillmore's administration Daniel Webster, the Secretary of State, had occasion to speak his mind to the Vienna upstarts."

The news of General Lee's nomination for Governor of Virginia reached the hotel when the guests were generally at dinner. As soon as she heard it Mrs. Wise arose from the table, passed over to Mrs. Lee, and congratulated her, saying: "If my husband is to be beaten, I had rather be beaten by your husband than by any man living." Mrs. Lee returned thanks and said: "Mrs. Wise, I only regret that both our husbands cannot be elected Governor of Virginia at the same time."

A MURDERER MONSTER.

Hampton with a Rifle. He Kills by the Wholesale.

AUSTIN, TEX., Aug. 27.—Mr. L. K. Eckert, of Johnson City, Blanco county, just arrived in Austin, states that Al Locke, an old citizen of extensive connection, had a step-daughter living with him who he seduced several years ago. Late in the year, the daughter was married, and this has been disturbing his mind, as his relations attributed to him the crime of seducing her. He left home, and, as it is reported, to go to John Green's place to borrow a sum of money. Green and family were away, but he entered the house, took Green's wife, Chester and returned to the residence of his brother, Berry Locke. He then shot and killed Berry and his brother's wife. A neighbor named John Nicholson rode up just then. He forced Nicholson to go with him to Mr. Stokes. He then shot and killed Mr. Stokes. These Nicholson was lost sight of. His horse was tied there when found, and it is supposed he was also killed. From there Locke went to his own house and shot and cut the throat of Mrs. Henry Locke, of Llano county, wife of his stepson, who was on a visit to him. He also shot and killed there Mrs. Green, wife of the Stokes he had killed just previous to the killing of Mrs. Henry Locke. Then he killed his own daughter, the one said to be pregnant by him. He then attempted to kill his wife, but his cartridge being exhausted he could not fire, and she escaped.

Having failed to reach and kill his wife he cut his own throat, mounted his horse and started in the direction of Johnson City. Arriving there he was arrested by men from Brunswick, where he was attacked, and taken to Johnson City, where he is now lying, inflicting fatal wounds. The murder was committed within two miles of it. He is still alive. About twenty children are left orphans by this horrible and senseless crime.

Scandals and Trials.

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 27.—Olmstead county is excited over a scandal and duel. About ten months ago, J. Ellis, a wealthy and prominent young stock farmer, married Miss L. Stora, daughter of a well-to-do neighbor, and the bride of the Best of the station vicinity. Within a week after the wedding Ellis and his bride back to her parents with the statement that he found her unchaste. Her father killed her because to him, armed to the teeth and demanded an explanation. The groom promptly replied that the young bride had been unchaste, and that she had seduced by her brother-in-law Charles Stora. Mrs. Ellis admitted that she had made such a confession, but declared that she had been forced into it by her husband under pain of death. Mr. Stora, a man of excellent standing, declared the charge was false. The scandal spread across the country, and John Stora, the young woman's brother, together with her father and brother-in-law, demanded severe vengeance. It is stated that the men have gone armed against each other for months. Ellis recently openly stated the cause of the quarrel, and separation from his wife. This brought matters to a crisis, and Farmer Stora and his son John, and John Ellis at Stora's house. Stora called him a liar and struck him in the face. He immediately drew his pistol and Stora, street returned. Young John Stora had come for some time, and he quickly took his brother-in-law's place in front of the armed assassin of his sister. The two men looked at each other, and each other began firing at fifteen paces, neither flinched as they stood and emptied their pistols at each other. After a dozen shots had been exchanged, Ellis was down with a bullet hole through his arm, and dropped his empty pistol on the grass. Stora went up to him and produced a cartridge, only asked him if he wanted to reload and continue the duel until one or the other had killed the other. At this point John Stora, who was slightly wounded, walked away. Ellis came to the city where his wounds dressed and is now confined to his room the hotel.
